On the evening of November 20th, the "Internet Moments" public welfare charity theme salon, hosted by the China Internet Development Foundation and undertaken by China Broadcasting Network Group Co., Ltd., was held in Wuzhen, Zhejiang. In recent years, the development of internet public welfare charity has quietly changed China's public welfare ecology and behavior patterns. The progress of internet technology has also given public welfare charity a greater imagination space, creating more possibilities. From the first rural revitalization talent training project initiated by Kuaishou in 2018 - "Happy Rural Leaders" to the opening of "Enlightenment Future School," and to this year's AI large model experience class brought by Kuaishou for rural children. Xu Jingyun, Vice President of Kuaishou Technology, said that as a technology company with inclusive genes, Kuaishou has not forgotten the coverage of public welfare while continuously expanding the application scenarios of large models. Lighting up more people's dreams through technology is a reflection of Kuaishou's original intention to "embrace every kind of life."
