Recently, Kuaishou and Xinhua News Agency launched a new episode of the character documentary series 'New Lao Tie,' turning the camera to a new-generation farmer rooted in the black soil. The short film, shot in a micro-documentary style, enters Liu Hui's cooperative, farmyards, and fields, documenting how he transitioned from a true-born farmer to gradually exploring full-process land management, large-scale mechanized farming, and how he shares agricultural expertise with more people through Kuaishou.
