People's Daily : Kuaishou Smart Cloud, the Ulanqab data center, has been officially launched in line with China's strategy of "Eastern Data and Western Computing"

In active response to China's strategy of "east-to-west computing resource transfer", Kuaishou held a ribbon-cutting ceremony for its smart cloud, the Ulanqab data center, on July 28. The project marks Kuaishou's first self-built, large-scale internet data center. The center was independently developed and designed by Kuaishou's technical team, and is set to become the largest data center in China specializing in the advancement of artificial intelligence and big data.
